

SIMPLE LOGIC

BY

TOBY LURIE

PREFACE

I am in the process of house-cleaning, a daunting task considering the extent of my poetry accumulated over a period of almost forty years. It took this move to Fort Bragg, a small, sleepy and seductive village located on the lost coast of northern California to make this happen. No longer held in the grip of my beloved San Francisco, I can now focus my attention on this project. Namely, disposing of that which is an embarrassment, improving on that which is border-line and utilizing that which is a matter of some pride. I am then taking what remains and formatting it into books of poetry which may at some future time fall into the hands of an unsuspecting publisher.

This introduction would do for any of my current books as the project is the same and my method of writing unchanged: to strengthen the bonding between Spoken-Language and Music, for one cannot exist without the other. The Spoken-Word as I see it contains all the elements of music: rhythm, tempo, pitch and dynamics, but in a more abstract and subtle form. Counterpoint is also evident in my multiple-voiced poems, as is harmony, resulting from the vertical elements arising from unisons and laminations. Even form, as it exists in music, is an element in Spoken-Music which consists, to a great degree, of Word-Scales, a method of composing poetry which is very similar in concept to the way a music composition is created from music scales.

For the curious of mind one will find music forms including: fugues, crab-fugues, and rondos present in these compositions. I urge you to read these poems aloud to fully appreciate and understand them. Dashes indicate silence and parentheses indicate a theme moving in reverse or borrowed from another voice.

AN OUTPOURING

1 And it rained and it rained in London drenching
2 And it rained and it rained and it rained

2 in the rain in the rain in the rain

1 all the way to Limerick and it rained where we 2 while it rained in the rain - - - - and it rained

1 almost used our tent so we slept inside Not yet
2 but it rained while it rained - - - -

1 had we seen the sun rise or set or felt a star
2 raining still in the rain in the rain in the rain

1 and it rained - - - - - This might have been a poem
2 for it rained and it rained - - - - -

1 about a mountain that held our bodies or a soft lake
2 and it rained raining and it rained but it rained

1 opening to our touch and we saw Ireland from moving cars
2 but it rained in the rain

1 past rolling hills of green small farms separated by walls
2 in the rain beneath the rain

1 of gray stone and into Dublin in search of 2 dripping rain in the unending rain in the rain

1 authentic melodies finding instead poor imitations of loud American rock
2 in the rain in the rain

1 while it rained while it rained
2 ----- sitting in the rain by waterlogged stone buildings

1 in the rain from the rain
2 rotting bales of hay dampness in our bodies thinking -----

1 in the rain in the rain it can't be

2 or at least that's it's raining

1 raining by writing a summer poem with summer feelings
2 incessantly raining in the rain

1 and stop looking or thinking about rain but it's 2 while it rains at the rain in the rain - - - -

1 not easy with an unused tent unused sleeping-bags
2 while rain falls while it rains because - -

1 unused mattresses and stove
2 yes because it rains because it rains because it rains still

1 as we depart Dublin across the Irish Sea ferrying to North Wales
2 in the rain in the rain

1 holding hands as our umbrella falls apart
2 under rainy skies in the stubborn rain in the rain

1 in Conwy most charming of villages where we could live
2 while it rains where it knows how to rain

1 and might but won't as a ray of sun squeaks
2 in the rain in the rain in the rain in the rain

1 between thunderheads where we settle for three days
2 in the rain in the rain in the rain

1 in a quiet pension Anne with a cold but slight
2 while outside it rains - - - - from the rain

1 and I do a laundry in a brief moment of sun
2 from the rain believe it between the rains - - - -

1 Now we explore Conwy its winding cobblestone streets
2 between rains cobblestone streets

1 ancient stone walls surrounding it for centuries
2 ancient stone walls surrounding it for centuries

1 quaint cottages neatly tucked boats at rest in the bay
2 in the rain and green waving foothills surrounding it

1 and in the early rain of an early morning
2 and in the early rain of an early morning picked up by a officer

1 heading toward York in the rain in the rain
2 in the R.A.F. in the rain past Chester another

1 in the rain and it rained and it rained
2 walled city avoiding Liverpool skirting Manchester

1 in the damp darkness of afternoon in the rain
2 cheerful conversation as I promise sun

1 and we say goodbye forgetting our new umbrella in his car
2 which fails us while it rains

1 stopping off at Shipley visiting Hawath where the Bronte
2 as it rains in the rain while it rains

1 sisters poured it out probably in the rain to myself thinking - - - -
2 in the rain thinking - - - -

1 Is this a poem or just a catalogue
2 this is a kind of travel poem covering a part of our summer

1 of places visited or quickly passed
2 while hitchhiking the United Kingdom in the rain

1 which probably seems - - - -
2 which might seem which must seem dull to anyone - - - -

1 boring as hell to anyone - - - but this morning I awakened
2 to everyone - - - - in the rain

1 thinking - - - - this has got to end but it probably won't 2 in the rain this rain and this

1 but it won't because it doesn't know how 2 senseless preoccupation with rain as it rains

1 and the swallows left York five weeks early and they 2 as it rains in the rain while it rained

1 know more about it than we do Sitting in our room
2 Oh yes they know they know - - - -

1 in Edinburgh Scotland after passing
2 while it rains and rains in the rain between rains

1 through the North York Moors Newcastle Upon Tyne
2 as the sky for a moment pauses

1 Berwick Upon Tweed into Scotland
2 from the rain a brief spot of sun invading the hills

1 in and out the North Sea rain and sun spots
2 of Scotland green hills flowing in and out

1 in the rain which I need to forget
2 entering Firth of Forn once again it rains and what can we do about it - - - -

1 approaching Edinburgh ancient center of culture
2 why not forget about it this rain this rain that falls

1 castled old town stoned new town housing our bodies
2 and will continue to rain so long

1 at the University of Edinburgh solemn seat of learning
2 as there is a sky to house the clouds

1 or so I've heard as the sky rests
2 which produce the rain as the sun breaks through

1 and Anne searches for rest and our plans
2 ever so briefly in the new morning rain

1 for the countryside of Northern Scotland collapsing
2 just begun much needed not the rain

1 as it rains - - - - - and rains - - - - -
2 in the rain and rains - - - - - and rains...
